

Virtual FAQ

- What will happen if you need to cancel the KBC Dublin Marathon event?

If that were to happen, all entries for the 2021 KBC Dublin Marathon (rolled over from 2020) would receive a place in the 2022 KBC Dublin Marathon. For those who do not wish to avail of this, a full refund option will be available.

- If you need to have a reduced field in the marathon, how will you select who gets to run?

It is still too early to give details on what our approach would be if this were to happen. We will have greater clarity by Friday 25th of June of the potential scenarios and we will inform runners of the approach that will be taken then.

- Is there a limit on virtual entries?

There is no limit on entries for any of the KBC Virtual Race Series Races or for the KBC Virtual Dublin Marathon.

- Will an entry for the 2020 KBC Race Series still hold for 2022?

Yes, your entry for the 2020 KBC Race Series will be valid for the 2022 KBC Race Series.

- Is there a refund option available for the KBC Race Series for those who rolled over entries from 2020 to 2021?

For those who do not wish to keep their rolled over entry place in the 2021 KBC Race Series, a refund option will be made available up to 18th June 2021. The refund will be available on "Manage My Bookings" from your entry confirmation link.

- Do you have details on how you could run the event?

We continually focus on delivering a quality and safe racing experience for all runners. The detailed planning by the organising committee is on-going in terms of potential safety measures and protocols and participant requirements to ensure the event's safe running. Runners will be informed in advance of any new protocols.

- Will International runners be taking part in the 2021 KBC Dublin Marathon?

We are currently not able to update on whether it will be possible for international participants to take part or not, we will let runners who have secured a place for the 2021 Dublin Marathon know by Friday 25th of June.